The Faculty of Law and Social Sciences (LSS) at Suleyman Demirel University (Kazakhstan) will host an International Conference on Law and Social Sciences on 24-25 April 2023. Co-partners and co-organizers of the conference are Policy Perspectives Foundation (India), Ala-Too International University (Kyrgyzstan), M. Narikbayev KAZGUU University and KIMEP University (Kazakhstan).

The conference seeks to provide a common venue for academicians, professionals, researchers, Ph.D. candidates, and graduate students in the field of law and social sciences from around the world. The theme of the conference is Law, Media, Society, Politics, and Geo-Economics in the Changing Landscape of Eurasia.

The ICLSS 2023 conference aims to conceptualize the occurring changes in the Eurasian landscape to uncover the consequences of the changes to the Eurasian region and, specifically, the Central Asian countries. Simultaneously, this conference will discuss the UN Sustainable Development Goals on issues such as no poverty, quality education, peace, justice, and strong institutions in the context of Eurasia.

The Faculty of Law and Social Sciences is glad to welcome scholars from local and international universities, research institutes, and other relevant institutions to participate in this conference. This event will bring distinguished speakers and scholars together to give keynote speeches and conduct panel discussions.

Subthemes of the conference include:

- Eurasian Integration and/or Disintegration
- Regional Integration in Central Asia
- Geo-economics
- Personal Law
- International Law
- IT Law
- Media and Democratization
- Data Driven Media
- Intersectionality of Gender, Migration, Human Rights, and Media

The conference will be organized on tracks such as Law, International Relations, Journalism, and Mass Communication, in the format of concurrent presentation sessions and panel discussions.

The languages of the conference are English, Kazakh, and Russian.
